SUIT OF A PROMOTER.

John Graham, one of the promoters of the Chesapeake Transit Company, which built and now operates the successful Law and Chancery. There were several promote's, and when the company needed money to carry on their ledged their stock certificates in bank, When more money was needed to save stock from confiscation, the plaindiff declined to put up more money and allowed his stock to be sold. Now he sues the company for services as the engineer who made the plans and developed the physical features which have resulted in a very valuable property. His petition declares that he had an agreement with the company to pay $5,000 a year for his services as engineer. The suit is hotly contested and not decided.

TONGMEN ACQUITTED

Suit of Interest and Importance to the Oyster Incustry in Westmirela d. (Special Dispatch to The Times.)

WARSAW, VA., Nov. 28.-The County Court of Westmoreland county adjourned late yesterday after a trial lasting three days, which attracted much attention and is of great interest and importance to those engaged in the oyster industry When the Baylor survey was made, large area of natural rock in Currioma and Nomini Bays was omitted therefrom. Parties applied for it for planting purposes, but the tongmen, through J. Chinn, Jr., their counsel, enjoined the inspector pending the injunction.

An act was passed April 2d, 1992, pro-viding for the survey and addition of these bottoms to the Baylor survey after the survey had been made. The junction was dissolved and the appli-eants demanded that the inspector comtimes when plete their assignment on the ground the wild that they had vested rights which could beasts have not be affected by the staute by order of Board of Fisheries. The assignments merciful were completed to the extent of eleven hundred acres of natural rock.

H. A. Rowe and Robert Hall, tongmen were arrested for trespass. Hon. R. J. Washington and W. T. Mayo, the latter of whom is one of the applicants for the ground in question, conducted the prosecution, while Hon. C. Conway Baker and J. W. Chinn, Jr., represented the defendants. The great fight was on instructions, and the court in deference to the authorities instructed that no vested right had been acquired, the applicants not having completed their contract by paying the rent and fees prescribed by law prior to the act of April 2d.

It is said that Warner P. Taylor and other prominent Richmond men are interested in the app'ication for the planting grounds, and the effort was to bring whole oyster business in Currioman and Nomini under practically one man-agement. It is believed that the action of the jury in acquitting Hall and Rowe will end the contention and leave the ground in the hards of the tongmen.
